

The Anchor's Secret Finale

Opening

You have just defeated the rumored Demon and some of his followers. You found an unconscious priestess in a wagon that the Stormcallers were dragging with them towards the Temple of Miraine. There are 3 Iron Tide soldiers that remain from the battle, and the Tidecutter Pirates are hot on your heels, trying to make it to the Gloamways before you. What do you do?

- Iron Tide Regiment:

- Slow down the pirates:

- Persuasion DC 15 w/Advantage
 - Priestess must be Handled

- Help Priestess

- End of encounter

- Priestess:

- Party takes her to safety

- Need 5 successes to make it to the temple.

- Leave Priestess to her fate.

- Gain an bad reputation with the ITR for leaving a helpless person.

Race to the Pearl

Players must succeed on a number of skill challenges to make it to the temple before the pirates. They must have 4 successes before they have 3 failures to succeed in this challenge.

Successes: _____

Failures: _____

☐ Collapsed Bridge

50 ft wide river that once had a bridge spanning the length. There are support pillars sticking out of the water 25 ft away and broken stones and lumber along both edges of the bank.

- Swim across: Athletics DC 15 (group check, strong current)
- Jump pillar-to-pillar: Acrobatics DC 14 (reach halfway, then swim final 25 ft)
- Build rope bridge: Use lumber + Athletics DC 13 (need rope/tools)
- Jezrek Water Walk: Auto-success if prepared (ritual = 10 min, spell = instant)
- Skirk anchors rope: Athletics DC 16 (heroic, takes 1d6 damage on fail but secures crossing)

☐ Navigate the mists

- Compass: Arcana DC 12 to attune to it properly
 - Success: Compass leads party directly through mist (Success ●)
 - Critical Success: Compass reveals shortcut (Success ● + advantage on next check)
 - Failure: Party gets turned around (Failure ●●)

❑ Pearlbound

As you approach the dome. You see a large collection of pearlbound surrounding the outer perimeter. Far more than you could possibly hope to defeat.

- Xander leads through: Auto-success 🌟🌟🌟 (Pearlbound part like the sea, MAJOR moment)
- Stealth infiltration: Group Stealth DC 17 (very hard, they're dense)
- Distraction + sprint: Deception/Performance DC 15 (one PC draws them away, others run)
- Skirk charges through: Combat (2 rounds = success but 3d6 damage each, 3+ rounds = failure)

❑ Coralite Dome

A dome created entirely around the Temple of Miraine made out of Coarlite.

- Invoke Miraine Directly — Religion or a Prayer/Ritual (DC 14)
- Find a Seam — Perception or Survival (DC 15)
- Soothe the Magic — Nature or a Calm-Focused Skill (DC 14)
- 5. Carve a Path Carefully — Crafting or a Delicate Tool Use (DC 16)
- 6. Brute the Seam (Risky) — Athletics (DC 18)

Temple: Hidden Entrance to the Gloamways

Entrance Gloamways

- As you enter the temple you see a quiet hall of pearl, the air cool and heavy with salt.
- At the far end stands an alter in the shape of a boat's keel, its base holding a thin layer of seawater that glows faintly in the dim light.
- Behind the alter, carved into the stone wall, is Miraine's symbol — a shield with waves inside it.
- It looks decorative.
- But Mistral, your map marks it clearly.

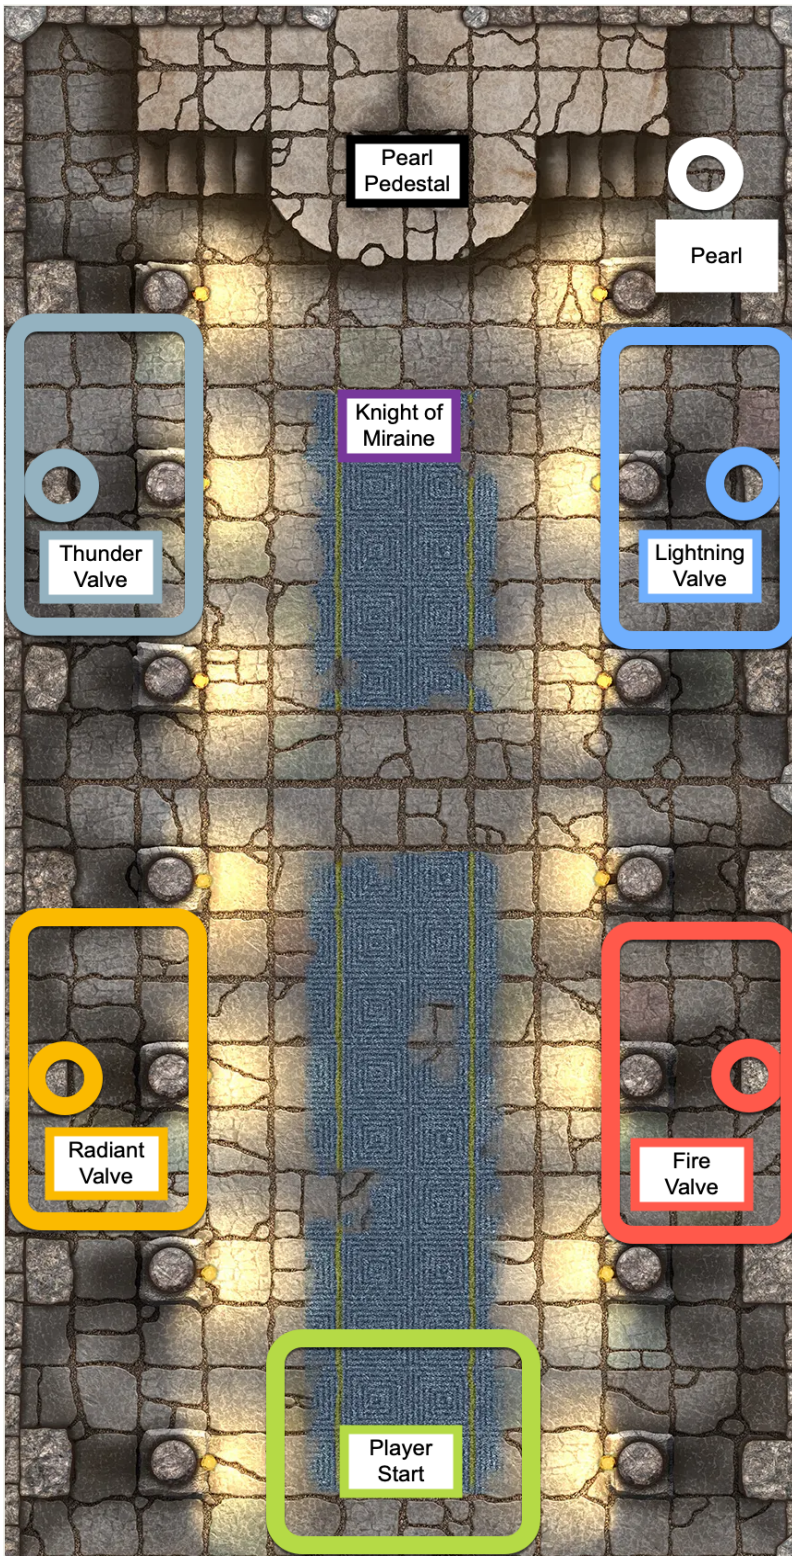

What the Map Says

- Stand in front of the symbol.
- Place your palm in the center of the shield.
- Speak Miraine's name.
- Press firmly.

What Happens When He Does

- You press the shield, the stone gives slightly.
- The water in the keel begins to drain away, spiraling downward through unseen channels.
- A low rumble echoes through the chamber.
- The shield symbol splits down the center and the wall parts
- Cold air rolls out from the darkness beyond.
- Stone steps descend into shadow.

Pearl Chamber

You step into a long hall—now flooded with water up to your waist and lit with a pale blue light.

Along the length of the hall stand four levers, two on each side. Faint channels in the stonework suggest some kind of drainage system connected to them. Each lever bears a symbol. The two closest to you are marked with a flame and a sun.

At the far end of the chamber rises a dais. A fountain with a pedestal stands atop it, conspicuously empty. The sound of water flowing from somewhere and a dull thumping sound in the background. Shards of Choralite litter the floor and glint beneath the water like scattered shrapnel.

At the base of the dais steps, to the right, rests a massive pearl—nearly the size of a man's head.

What do you do?

Pearl Room Mechanics

- Map is Difficult Terrain:
 - While the room is flooded it counts as difficult terrain.
 - Once 2 of the Valves have been opened, the water level lowers to the point that it is no longer difficult terrain.
- Valves:
 - PC must use an ability with the associated element within 10 ft of the valve to unlock it.
 - PC must be standing next to the lever to pull it and open the valve.
 - PC using abilities of that type outside of the 10 ft radius will cause that radius to glow in an inviting way.

Tactics

- Extremely mobile and aggressive
- Teleports into danger
- Focuses weakest or isolated targets
- Fights until destroyed

The Knight's Defeat

The knight's watery form becomes unable to hold it's shape. It suddenly bursts and drops it's Sword with a thud. The Sword appears to have once been a cutlass, but appears to have been reshaped into a longsword with a water blade.

Returning the Pearl

- Only Xander can touch the pearl
 - Anyone else touches the pearl They start to break out with the choral marked disease and will be turned into a choral marked with in 3 rounds, dealing $\frac{1}{3}$ of their HP each round.

- Demon in the fountain

As you approach the Fountain. You see that the bottom of the fountain is clear crystal and underneath it you see a demonic face staring back up at you. There are a number of cracks in the crystal and the creature appears to be hitting it. When the creature sees you approaching with the Pearl, it starts hammering even harder on the crystal trying to break it before you can put the pearl back.

- When the pearl gets situated in the pedestal:

As the pearl touches the pedestal, water starts flowing from it. The cracks in the fountain quickly mend themselves and the creature appears to cry out in frustration, although you cannot hear him. The constant Rain in the ward Stops. Outside the clouds break and for the first time in 7 months the Tidewatch Ward is touched with sunlight.

- Xander Vision

Xander, your vision flashes white for a moment. Your mind is taken back to the Realm of Miraine. You remember the day... The day you volunteered to return to life to restore The Wakekeeper's Pearl. The day you promised your family to save Aetheria. Tell us about that and why you didn't remember.

- After this Revelation,

Miraine comes to you, and says, "My most trusted Servant! You have performed admirably. I cannot ask you for anything more than you have already given. What would you ask of me? You can choose to stay and continue the work that you have begun, or reunite with your loved ones. You see your wife and children looking at you with pride.

- The Knight of Miraine melds out of the floor standing as a Sentry on the dias.

Pirates

As you take in what just happened in the hall, you see Thalric and his crew burst into the chamber. They look around the hall, looking weary and battle worn. Thinking that their prize was just around the corner, they seem surprised to see the Knight of Miraine behind you.

Mistral: you know that the pirates won't back down unless they are able to leave with something to show for it, even if it is not the pearl, and they don't seem too eager to go through you and the Knight.

- Coralite samples - valuable magical material (Ryan/Lil John's quest item)
- Maps to other treasures - Jason/Mistral might have found other pirate maps
- Salvage rights - "Help us clear Tidewatch Ward, keep what you salvage"
- Sword of Miraine - +1 Longsword with 2d6 radiant damage.

Arthur: You see Kealrix among the pirates. He looks at the outside and his crew with unease.

Camp Scene

The night after the ordeal. You find yourself in an encampment together, having explained the situation to the Choral marked, they gave you respite in one of their camps. You are sitting around a fire. Thinking about all that has happened. What do you say to each other?

Aftermath

Xander now known as the “Tidebreaker” instead of “Floodbringer”

What do your character's do now?
